

BUSINESS SECTION SHUTS DOWN AT NOON

One hundred Janesville business houses closed this afternoon, the first weekly half holiday for clerks during the months of July and August. Despite repeated announcements of the commencement of the closings today a number of shoppers were observed attempting to enter stores with curtains drawn and doors locked. To care for the wants of the ill and for emergencies one drug store will remain open as usual on Wednesday afternoons and evenings.

GARBAGE COLLECTION AND DISPOSAL.

Janesville faces a most serious condition in the matter of disposal of garbage. This subject is divided into three parts:

1.—The saving of the garbage by the household, what sort of receptacle is used and how it is kept to minimize the danger in poisonous decay.

2.—The collection of the garbage either by the city wagons under a garbage collection system, or the disposal to private persons who wish to use it as soil, or the disposal at home either by burning or burying.

3.—The disposal of the garbage under a city collection plan either by placing in an isolated public dump or by incineration.

There must eventually be a disposal of the garbage of the city by enforced regular collection.

It is the only way to have a sanitary city. Decay spreads disease. Decaying refuse breeds flies and they carry disease as well as filth to spread both abroad. We all understand and know that this is a fact beyond argument. We simply weigh up on one side of the scales the cost and on the other the chance of sickness and death. So far cost has outweighed the health consideration. Garbage should be placed in a closed receptacle of a pattern prescribed by regulation. It should be kept closed and made impossible for flies to breed or carry away the filth.

This refuse is collected regularly by wagons and at a minimum cost, in cities having a garbage collection system. For years in some of the larger cities this garbage was dumped. New York loaded it onto barges and sent them out to sea. Later winds piled it up, on the shores of Long Island and it became a menace when the city reached out to cover the shores of that section with homes. In St. Louis the garbage was sent down the Mississippi and dumped on an island where it served as food for a drove of hogs. But it was discovered that this method of disposal was wasteful and extravagant. There is value in garbage. It pays for disposal with a large percentage of profit.

Dr. B. H. Warren, health officer of Groesbe Point, Mich., writes to the Gazette of the problem much like ours which they have solved there. This is a suburban section of Detroit and in all such sections garbage disposal is a more serious question even than in the closely built city. For the disposal of the garbage they have a reduction plant. Dr. Warren states that it is possible to build such a plant and receive from 10 to 20 per cent on the investment. Just now the whole country is interested in the supply of commercial fertilizer. The supply is way below the demand. There is much talk of the government taking over the manufacture and handling of this product. Garbage reduced, has as its largest by-product commercial fertilizer. Another by-product is grease. All of these things have to do with municipal thrift. We waste in our present method each year, tons of fertilizer and many thousands of dollars of grease value.

Janesville confronts this problem and it calls for careful consideration and "careful consideration" does not mean postponement of action as is the general interpretation of the term. While it is too late to apply any funds to this municipal need this year, the public should be so convinced of its pressing need, that it would appear in the 1921 budget.

The Rev. O. J. Kvale, in whom the people of Rock county have a more than passing interest, and who was nominated for congress against the noted Mr. Volstead, faces a contest over his nomination and an independent ticket in his district. While Minnesota has a primary which makes it necessary for a declaration of party affiliation, it is claimed that the socialist and democratic vote went to Mr. Kvale in violation of the law. If the law is invoked it will bring an interesting situation and possibly determine whether a voter whose affiliation has always been with one party may go over and decide the primary in another, as is repeatedly done in the state of Wisconsin. The difference is that we permit this, having no corrective statute.

The Interchurch World movement has been abandoned. Withdrawal of the Presbyterians followed by the Baptists ended the elaborate financial program. It was discovered that the people were unwilling to support movements of this kind with the liberality the schedule called for. The country is tired of these money drives and it has been pounded so long that it finally rebelled. Then, too, there were internal dissensions over the survey made of the steel strike and the claim followed that the movement was going outside the boundaries for which it was being organized. On this point there was a serious break and was the final blow that killed the movement.

Hiram Johnson is unqualifiedly for the republican ticket and will be found doing hard work for Harding and Coolidge. This is a hard blow to Mr. Hearst and the Third party or busters.

Mr. Cox is not much on the League of Nations, but he will find ample time explaining his position on the liquor question to the women voters.

Under the ultimatum of the allies to the Germans at Spa, it is a case of "fish or cut bait" on carrying out the terms of the peace treaty now.

Joe Davies said that Wilson's vote would go to Cox and Roosevelt. Joe will probably have a promise go to protest in November.

Why nominate a vice-president? Gov. Cox already had John Harley for a running mate.

Stretching the Life Line

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington, D. C., July 7.—You have a better chance than your grandfather had of living your allotted three score years and ten, because you live in a healthier century. Of course, you may depart this life suddenly before your time by getting in the way of a rapidly traveling auto, or as a result of an insignificant pin scratch. But bearing accident, disease, or chance of living to grow old. Strictly speaking, you are getting better every day.

Two hundred years ago, the average person lasted only twenty years on this danger-infested globe. Half a century ago, the average life line had stretched to forty years, and now it is estimated to have reached fifty years. It is true that in the days when germs flourished uncontrolled some folks lived to be one hundred years and more, but babies died by the thousand, and surgery was in the saw and hammer stage when to perform a major operation was practically murder.

Today, if you get stabbed in the heart a surgeon coolly opens you up, takes out your heart in his hand, repairs it and sews it in as good as ever. Improved sanitation and scientific war on mosquitoes, flies and rats, are recent developments which are making life safer. So are antitoxins, vaccination, anesthetics, antiseptics, and public health education. But along with our former grip on Father Time's coat-tails, we are developing an unprecedented amount of old age diseases.

The Public Health Service reports that never before has there been so much heart trouble, cancer, chronic Bright's disease, and artery troubles, largely because never before have there been so many elderly people.

In time, no doubt, we will attack these diseases systematically in youth when they start. It was found recently, for instance, that 20,000 school children in New York City have evidences of heart disorder, and this knowledge has led to special attention to their teeth and tonsils, diet and exercise. Many of these children live in five-story "walk up" tenements, which accounts in some cases for symptoms of strain.

It is suggested that pupils with weak hearts should be put in separate schools where their health could be more carefully watched than in the regular public school buildings. One-fifth of the deaths over forty years are due to heart trouble, though a large proportion of heart trouble is preventable, or curable if taken in time.

Is old age a disease? What causes it? and finally and most important, is it preventable? are questions which have been answered in many ways, but to which conclusive answers are still being sought.

It is a well-known fact that old age is usually accompanied by hardened arteries, stiff joints, loss of faculties, and general debility. But these conditions do not inevitably occur. Thomas Edison, who is seventy-three, and who hopes to live to see one hundred and fifty, says that because he sticks to a spare diet his arteries are as young as his boyhood. Robert of the United States, who is eighty years old, is more spry and mentally alert than others of his age. These people seem to offer greater resistance to disease due to a strong constitution and healthy habits of life.

Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, who has collected data regarding 8,000 persons who lived to be one hundred or over, concludes that these characteristics are often handed down, so that longevity becomes a family trait. He believes that longevity should be cultivated as it has been in the Hyde family noted for consistently long lives through many generations. Dr. Bell's plan in short, is for a healthy life, which will have long life as one of the signs of its vitality.

No practical method of preventing senility has ever been discovered. Metchnikoff's idea that if a man's long intestine, which is a great collector of germs, were cut out, he would stand a good chance of greatly extended youth. Dr. Bell's plan is for a healthy life, which will have long life as one of the signs of its vitality.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

AT HOME.
I do not want to see the sights,
I do not care about Japan
Or Italy's romantic nights.

But still I do not care to roam;
Great wonders round the world may be,
But still I do not care to roam;
I find there's joy enough for me
Here in the little place called home.

Let him who will, take train or ship
And smile as he is outward bound,
I do not envy him his trip.
Though he may face the world around;
I have no wish to stand and gaze
Wild-eyed at some cathedral dome,
I merely want to live my days
Here in the little place called home.

New scenes? I crave them not at all!
I would not leave the old;
This humble roof and modest wall;
The treasures of a lifetime hold;
Here is a sweeter rest than that Which finds you in the ocean's foam,
And for all time I'd hang my hat
Here in the little place called home.

Travel, you wanderer, if you will,
And see the splendors of the earth,
No distant journeying can fill
This heart of mine with honest mirth;
Peace and contentment find by day
Come with the sunset and the gloom,
And to the end of time I'd stay
Here in the little place called home.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By ROY K. MOULTON.

POLITICS.
I once got into politics.
What a wild ride it was.
I think I ran for city clerk.
My memory is bad.

I lived then in a little burg.
My friends were all my hosts.
They all knew me and I knew them.
Yes, I knew them—almost.

And every voter in that town
Stepped up and shook my hand
And made an awful lot of fuss.
I was a big success that day.

The other fellow for the job
They knocked both day and night
And up to noon, election day,
He was nowhere in sight.

My friends stood by me to the end,
A fact I'd like to note.
They all stood by me to the end,
Till it was time to vote.

But when the final score was told
There were sixteen for me.
They told me I had lost my job.
Nine hundred forty-three.

So since that time I've always walked Quiet and alone in Dodge City.
When I've observed a heeler who Is hired to boost or knock.

As to the game of politics,
I would much rather play
Draw poker with the cards all marked
The other fellow's way.

The European woman who won the championship as the homeliest of her sex there is coming to New York. She certainly will be conspicuous here.

How quiet it is around here since the chatter-box, Colonel House, left for Europe.

Mary Louder allows and admits that he has a little Scotch in his constitution. But isn't that unconstitutional now?

MARCEL'S SEANCE.
A man and a woman were playing the ouija board. Both were over fifty years old, and they had known each other for many, many years. She was a widow and he was a widower.

"Ask her to marry you, John," came a message from his former wife.

"If he does, accept him, Mildred," came a message from his former husband.

Now, these two have since been married; but what I want to know is, what are the other two doing in spiritland?—Margaret Steinberg.

One thing in favor of Mr. Debs for president, points out the Louisville "Courier-Journal," is that his traveling expenses are expected to be light for several years.

A SON PROVES HIS USEFULNESS.
There is at least one son in Dodge City who can be criticized for lack of devotion to his father. "Dad," said the boy to his father yesterday, "there are some advantages in having a boy like me in the family. I have noticed that you are no longer called upon for explanations every time a few extra hairpins are found in our automobile."—Dodge City Globe.

California scientists say they are going to hunt bears with bows and arrows. They should remember the experience of another distinguished Californian who recently went hunting the presidency with a megaphone.

AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF A BABY—20

The Control of Diarrhea

Diseases of which diarrhea is the prominent symptom are the chief cause of the excessive infant mortality among babies, and most of these diseases are preventable.

Diarrhea is of three types: (1) From simple mechanical irritation of the bowel by such things as raw food, which should never be fed to a child under four years, grape skins, cucumbers, peanuts and like.

Parents and ignorant or irresponsible guardians are to blame for these mistakes. (2) Diarrhea from excessive fermentation in the bowel, an excessive quantity of sugar (or even starch) in some alleged infant foods in the diet, or to the introduction of bacteria of an excessive number of bacteria due to uncleanliness in the handling or marketing of the milk or to lack of proper refrigeration of the milk before it is fed to the baby.

If too much sugar is present, as in condensed milk feeding and other clovering, if fattening, canned substitutes for a child's natural food, or if some of the sugar remains undigested and passes on into the large intestine, where it undergoes fermentation, with the production of irritating acids and diarrhea. (3) Diarrhea caused by infection of the wall of the intestine with some specific germ, such as the bacillus of the bacillus, the gas bacillus or the streptococcus, and in this type the distinguishing sign is the presence of blood or pus or both in the bowel discharges.

Mechanical Diarrhea. Don't "try" knickknacks on the baby. Don't offer the baby tastes or samples of things which he is not used to eating. Treatment consists of limiting the child's diet to barley water for 12 hours, giving plenty of rest, and keeping the child at rest in bed, administering a single dose of castor oil, and calling the doctor if the trouble persists more than 24 hours.

The Mystery of Hartley House

By CLIFFORD S. RAYMOND

(Copyright by George H. Doran Co.)

He was gallant, amorous, suggest-tender, soulful, aggressive, pleading, threatening, subversive and I think that is all—but only in manner.

"I don't understand it," I said helplessly.

"Neither do I," she said. "And I know just enough to know that I shall not understand it. I do not like to find a Romeo among the servants, but I have learned to accept some strange conditions here—among servants."

"Don't disturb yourself about me," said.

A good deal of my hurt pride must have found expression in that remark.

"I am unjust," she said. "I know that you are doing what my mother wants done and that you are not considering yourself. I shall be reasonable. I want to make my life as pleasant as it can be made. I cannot understand everything that she wants me to do, but I know that she has done everything for me that I could want."

"I'd like to protect you and your mother," I said.

"I am indebted," said Isabel.
Then she smiled and said:

"Good night, but if I am inconvenient at any time, put it down to a naturally bad temper."

Jed had taken a small shotgun and was going after rabbits.

Which were unusually numerous at the time.

It was a warm afternoon with a warm sun. An hour or two after Jed had gone I went out, for a walk, going down by the pool.

I was in the brush for 15 minutes, and it happened that while I was there I saw from a little prominence the figure of a man on ahead with a shotgun. He was some distance away, but I could see that tree in an open clearing for one hunting rabbits.

It was as if he were stalking something rather than trying to kill rabbits out of the brush.

Again I saw Jed ahead of me. I came out on the path and went down.

Whenever I saw a piece of drift in the pool and watched its movement,
I thought of the body of a rabbit brother. It was the current and carried down stream. On the bank had been found a few bits of rabbit skin and a sleeve of a shirt collar spotted with blood, a necktie and a piece of white shirt.

There also had been found a heavy walking stick, bloodied and with hair in it.

I had not been sitting on the bank five minutes when I was startled by a shot from the nearby tangle of a bullet hit with a report of where it was striking, knocking off the bark of a tree. The report was not that of a small shotgun such as Jed had used. It was the report of a rifle or plato.

The clipped bark showed that a bullet not shot, had hit the tree, and I was unpleasantly reminded of what I had heard. Jed had shot at me, and probably with a large caliber revolver. He could not have been in the brush, unless he had, and he was not as he left the house but as he was lodging through the thickets.

It likely was not a revolver, and that was why he had missed me, and I was stupefied for an instant, and I did not jump or start. I was not less, not even a moment, and I was thinking rapidly. A subconscious protective idea formed almost instantly, and when the next moment another shot came, I turned my face in the direction from which the shot came, got out my pistol and lay still.

After a minute or two, which seemed a very long time, Jed's face came in view in the brush. He looked molested, but I think he was uncertain whether to leave my body where it lay and have it recovered, or to disappear into the brush and be disappeared. His decision was given him by the noise of a farm wagon approaching on the road, and he disappeared. I was ready to shoot him if he came near me.

I was young and had youth's confidence, but nevertheless I was not would have been a good natured, and it was not been for Isabel and Mrs. Sidney. They needed even my small help and I had to remain
I had also to be ready to shoot
him if he came near me.

My Sidney never liked to have his vicarious drinking interrupted, but he always was good natured, and

WHEN A MAN'S MARRIED

FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

The Clan of North America

Francis Rott-Wheeler

By the time Captain Will had equipped the inside of the Gym it looked just as workmanlike as the outside. Will declared that he could not get the fellows to work because they were so busy admiring what they had done.

"You'd think they'd invented log houses," he said, scowling. "No! That is just what I want. First WORK no works, like rockets and cannon crackers. It was much more excit- ing, too."

Boys and girls who are in the same class at school decided to have a picnic the Fourth of July. We went to Look Out Mountain, just a nice trolley ride from My Town.

Such woods for a picnic! The brook fairly talks and the trout in it are as plain as the mountains, and far away, as the top of the mountain, is the little station where the Forest lives.

We wouldn't hurt a leaf of those woods, for the Forester had come to our school one day, telling us about the game laws, asking us not to cut the trees, and to keep the forest for the forests. So we didn't intend to have anything happen on our picnic.

But it happened! Bob, up in a tree, saw it first—a snake red tongue of fire flicking its way through the dry bushes. We had dropped to the ground in a second.

"The bonfire where we roasted sausages has spread," he gasped, "and the fire is out of control!"

"Then came the fire-WORK! Even the girls helped in the fire brigade. We had to make a dash for it, and to check the blaze that was creeping up the hill. We used the tin can boxes and pails for buckets. We burned our hands and singed our hair. But we put out the fire."

"The Forester himself had seen us," he said. "He was in the smoke and had come up at a gallop. 'I wish you'd keep this fire brigade working all summer. Half the bad forest fires start at picnics.'"

Would we? Be sure we did, scout- ing the woods near My Town all summer.

So could you, near your town.

He helped to make it. This is mine."

CLINTON

[By Gazette Correspondent.] Clinton, July 7.—The children's day exercises of the Protestant church, which were postponed from Sunday on account of the Chau- tauqua, were held Sunday morning and were well attended. Under the leadership of Miss Margaret McKay, the children all did well. The church was beautifully decorated with flowers and the collection amounted to over $46.

That love sometimes cures dis- ease is a fact that has been called to the attention of the public by a prominent physician. Love is not, however, the cure for all ills, and many a woman is nervous and irritable, feels dragged down and worn out for no reason that she can think of.

Doctor Pierce's Favorite Pre- scription gives new life and new strength to weak, worn-out, run-down women. "Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong and sick women well. It is now sold by all druggists in the United States in tablets as well as liquid form.

MANKATO, MINN.—"I have three daughters who are all strong and healthy today due, I am sure, to the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Pre- scription. When they were in their teens they were all very delicate. I always gave them this medicine and it never failed to give relief."

"I am in hopes that this will be the means of aiding some who are suffering."—MRS. MARY GOODRICH, 218 West Rock Street.

BILLY WHISKERS

FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY

The kids wandered around Con- stantinople for days, having many adventures. One day they came out hungry, until one day they came out by chance upon the whole where they had landed, and saw lying at the dock a large sailing vessel being loaded with Turkish rugs.

As they had done once before, they watched their chance and went behind a pile of rugs, and were not noticed until the vessel had sailed away, and Constantinople, with its beautiful white minarets and dirty streets, was a thing of the past.

The kids soon learned they were on board the Mary Jane, bound for Boston, with her hold filled with ex- pensive rugs and her deck piled high with cheap ones. These were for sale on purpose, so the wind and weather would make them look more like antique rugs by fading their brilliant colors and tearing their fringes, so the Turks in Bos- ton could say, when selling them: "You see these are genuine" (as they always pronounce it) and

Real Music at command,
Music when you want it,
Music how you want it, Better still

Music that you make yourself.
All this is yours if you possess a famous

M. Schulz Co. Player Piano

This wonderful instrument puts in the power of any music lover, whether trained or not, the finest music instantly. The first time you try it you can play. And the more you try the better you play, and the more you like it.

The M. Schulz Co. Player Piano is built by the famous M. Schulz Co., Chicago, makers of the celebrated Schulz Pianos and Organs. It consists of a genuine Schulz piano, combined with a wonderful playing mechanism, originated, perfected and built into the piano invisibly, by the same makers.

You can play it YOURSELF
Home or by hand or by music roll

Moderate prices; convenient terms; same full guarantee as covers the Schulz Pianos. If this interests you, call at

Follow The Crowd To The Dance at RIVERSIDE PARK

Dancing tonight and every night from 8:30 till 12.

You'll enjoy an outing at Janesville's new park, bring your picnic basket and spend the day. Our new beach is now in use. A cooling dip in Rock River will make you feel 100 per cent better.

Music is furnished by our special five piece orchestra featuring Turk Turner, "the singing artist," they'll drive the frown from your brow and the worries from your mind.

Get to the park by boat at foot Fourth Ave bridge or by street car or bus. Those going by auto look for the new archway at end of Washington Street car line.

July Clearing Sales

DEMAND YOUR ATTENTION

For years it has been our custom to not carry over seasonable merchandise from one season to another, and with this fact in mind we have planned this annual July Clearing Sale again for this summer. Prices have been cut in many cases right in half, in order that the remaining seasonable merchandise will be moved from our store to make room for early fall merchandise which will very soon be arriving.

We wish to draw especial attention to our coat stock, which we have marked at fifty per cent discount. Coats are included in this stock, which if bought at today's market prices—and in passing we will say that many of the Fall models we have bought are identical with some we have in stock for this season—would cost from 15% to 20% more than the regular prices of these garments. We urge economical women to select their garments at this sale. A real sale. We have made up our mind to rid ourselves of this merchandise—every coat, suit, dress, skirt and blouse. Prices do not make a difference, we want sales and these discounts will make them.
